Live Irish Music: The Irish Brigade

A Native of County Limerick, Mike Wallace arrived in America in the early seventies. He brought with him a resurgence of Irish music as a founding member of the Irish Brigade. Mike came to the Twin Cities in 1978 introducing many new Irish performers to his American audiences. He is regarded as one of the key persons responsible for the growth of Irish music and dance throughout America. Mike carries with him the energy into every performance today as he did when he first arrived on the shores of America. "I wouldn't tell ye lies lads, I wouldn't tell ye lies". His long-time partner Dave Draeger will play the bodhran at CPLC's event.
